Con-Terra Women Display Arts & Crafts

Mrs. David Porter, left above, and Mrs. Stacey Gray, right above, are shown displaying items that won first place in recent Con-Terra Woman's Club Fine Arts And Crafts Show. These items will be in competition in the Alice Kyle District Show to be held in Appomattox on March 15, 1975 at the Appomattox County High School.

VDAC Warns Cattlemen

The USDA recently announced that all livestock producers and feeders using the growth stimulant Diethylstilbestrol (DES) will have to stop administering the product to their animals 14 days before slaughter, instead of seven days previously required, the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce (VDAC) said today.

"Effective March 17, feeders also will be required to file a certificate stating that they have not fed DES to livestock in the 14 days prior to sale for slaughter," said Dr. George B. Estes, state veterinarian, and director of VDAC's Division of Animal Health and Dairies.

USDA said that the longer withdrawal period will provide additional protection to the consumer from possible residues of DES appearing in the meat supply, and give additional protection to the producer against potential violation of the law. Federal law prohibits the marketing of meat from animals which have DES residues at the time of slaughter. A synthetic hormone, DES is used primarily on cattle and sheep to promote growth.

Dr. Estes said that the new federal regulations require that certificates verifying that the animals have had the proper withdrawal time from DES be presented to a state or federal inspector before slaughter. Marketing agencies or dealers may issue certification based on the certification from previous owners.

"Animals brought to slaughter that cannot be properly certified as DES-free for the required 14 days, will either be held at the slaughter establishment on DES-free feed for 14 days, or they will be slaughtered and the meat retained until analysis shows that the animals were free of the residue," Dr. Estes warned.

Camporee Set For May 23 - May 25

Appomattox County Girl Scouts will participate in a three day Camporee May 23rd through May 25th to be held at the Council-owned Camp Sacajawea in Lynchburg.

Lorraine Rath of Concord is consultant for this event. Each troop will take part and will be assigned obligations to make the week end a success.
